President's Message

Dear Alumni, Parents and Friends of Riordan,

Though I love all things Riordan, fishing is a close second. It helps me clear my mind and think about serious things, and not-so-serious things, too. The lessons I have learned on a fishing boat certainly have value on land.

Last year when I became President of Archbishop Riordan High School, I knew that we were embarking on an incredible journey. At times I knew this journey would be stormy, but confident that our vessel would continue to move forward steadied by the guiding principles of Marianist education and support from this community.

As a Marianist school, we are committed to educating for adaptation and change and charting new courses. At the beginning of the school year we welcomed 30 new faculty and staff members. Other pillars of the Riordan community stepped in to fill new roles, including our principal, Vittorio Anastasio '84.

In the fall, Archbishop Riordan was recognized by the San Francisco Business Times for having the largest enrollment increase of any San Francisco high school for 2012-2013, a nod to the great work of our Admissions team and every student, parent, staff member and alumnus who is an ambassador of our school.

I was particularly proud to witness school history last May when the Class of 2013 became the first alumni class to achieve a 100% giving rate. Their collective contribution of $450 became the basis for the Jacob Valdiviezo '11 Endowed Scholarship. I invite other classes to similarly rise to the challenge. It is only with the support of alumni and friends that we will continue to navigate a successful future.

As we all know, faith is a process. In the book of John, Jesus calls on his disciples at the Sea of Tiberias to keep fishing after a night without a single catch. "Cast the net over the right side of the boat and you will find something." So they cast it, and were not able to pull it in because of the number of fish" (John 21: 6). While we can't always expect calm waters, if we have faith in God and in one another, we can certainly believe what is possible in the next net.

Sincerely,

Joseph M. Conti
President

Archbishop Riordan High School welcomes the following members to the Board of Trustees and thanks them for their time, commitment and leadership on behalf of our young men.

Kathy Grogan

As a partner at Hood & Strong, Kathy Grogan has more than 24 years of experience in public accounting, providing a range of services including internal control and operations reviews, analysis of accounting systems and preparation of financial statements in audit engagements. Kathy is also the leader of Hood & Strong’s Not-For-Profit Industry Group and Chair of the firm’s Board of Directors. This is Kathy’s fourth term on the Riordan Board. She is also a member of the Mercy High School Board of Trustees, the California Society of CPAs, the American Institute of CPAs, the Bread and Roses Board of Directors, and the National Association of Independent Schools.

Kelvin Quan

Kelvin Quan is the Chief Administrative Officer at On Lok Senior Health Services, the pioneer in comprehensive health, social and long-term care for the elderly. Previously he was the Associate Dean at the UC Berkeley School of Public Health and was a senior executive in health plans and hospitals throughout the Bay Area. He has served on many community boards in health advocacy, youth programs, elderly services, education and historic preservation. Kelvin is currently pursuing a doctorate in Educational Leadership at San Francisco State University. He earned a law degree at the UC Hastings College of the Law, a MPH from the UC Berkeley School of Public Health and a BA from Northwestern University. He and his wife Karen Lam have three children; Kyle is a proud Riordan freshman.

Reverend Monsignor James T. Tarantino

Monsignor Tarantino is the Vicar General and Moderator of the Curia for the Archdiocese of San Francisco. A graduate of the University of San Diego and a native San Franciscan, he was the Pastor at St. Hillary’s in Tiburon as well as president of Marin Catholic High School.

Lisa Wuerstle

Lisa Wuerstle is the current President of the Archbishop Riordan High School Parent Association. A graduate of UC Berkeley where she received a BS and MBA, she is currently a Staff Analyst at Chevron Corporation. Lisa and her husband Larry live in Pacifica and are the parents of Anthony ‘14 .

“DID YOU DO EVERYTHING YOU POSSIBLY COULD?”

MARC ROVETTI '87, DIRECTOR OF ALUMNI RELATIONS, IN CONVERSATION WITH MIKE DONOHOE '63, RIORDAN'S FIRST GRADUATE TO PLAY IN THE NFL

Archbishop Riordan High School has always held a strong place in my psyche and I feel honored to be back at my alma mater as the new Director of Alumni Relations. I have already had the privilege of meeting so many alumni during my short time here. One of my first endeavors was working on a video to promote our field project. We brought back a number of alumni to talk about their experiences at Riordan and what it means to be a Crusader athlete. You can hear their perspectives at www.riordanhhs.org/fieldproject.

Michael Pierce Donohoe '63 was one such individual who graciously participated. Donohoe and I met at the Balboa BART station and made our way down Phelan Avenue. This was the first time he had been back to campus while school was in session, after living in Chicago for the past 25 years, and more recently in Alameda. Soft-spoken and charismatic, Donohoe came to his 50th reunion last April, noting fondly, “We all thought we were the youngest guy there.”

Like any good Crusader, Donohoe came prepared. He had obviously thought through his time at Riordan, and answered each question eloquently. He is also humble; during the interview he was surprised to learn that he was the first alumnus to play in the National Football League.

Donohoe spoke fondly about his experience at Riordan and the fundamental things he learned that would take him to the NFL where he played seven seasons for two teams, the Atlanta Falcons and the Green Bay Packers. He also played one season for the World Football League. Listening to Donohoe, I was struck by the fact that he did not feel that athletics defined him. Instead, he took a strong stance on balancing academics and sports. “I’m not sure if I learned the life lessons on the field, or in the classroom, or both,” Donohoe said. “You had to learn how to manage your time.”

While football was his first passion, Donohoe also tried out for, but didn’t make, the freshman baseball team. Not to be dissuaded from a spring sport, Donohoe turned instead to track where he eventually was voted “Best Track Man” his senior year. His Crusader fortitude seems to be a common theme, when he notes that none of the football teams on which he played while at Riordan were hugely successful. “We were an average team. I think I caught five passes one season,” he said. They finished 5-3-1 his senior year. His advice to current students, “Try it and see how it goes, don’t give up because others tell you that you won’t make it.”

Donohoe noted that while the mats provided today for the track team are a bit more robust, he is amazed that the field hasn’t changed much since his time here in the 1960s. He pointed out, “I actually can’t picture the school without the field, but you need to have a field that represents the excellence of Riordan.” That excellence is what he feels propelled him on his course in life.

Donohoe was admitted to the University of San Francisco in 1963. He made a point of explaining to me that his admittance to USF was not by athletic scholarship but rather his merits in the classroom. "There was a mentality that academics were more important than sports, and that athletes must do as well in the classroom as they do on the field," he said.

At the age of 18, Donohoe was 6'2" and weighed in at 175 pounds. During a pick-up game of football with some friends following graduation from Riordan he tweaked his knee so badly that he was unable to play football his freshman and sophomore years at USF. However, by the end of his sophomore year, Donohoe had sprouted to 6'4" and weighed 225 pounds. During another pick-up game, this one in basketball, a football coach noted his athleticism and asked him to try out for the team. Donohoe pointed out to the coach that he had a bad knee, but the coach convinced him to give it a try. He made the team and played tight end at USF for three seasons ('65, '66, and '67). Donohoe still holds the USF record for the most receiving yards (225) in a game against Chico State in 1967 where he clearly caught the attention of the NFL.

In 1968, Donohoe was drafted by the Minnesota Vikings, the 225th overall pick in the 9th round, and was traded to the Falcons where he began his career. "There were no agents in those days," he said. "What they presented looked good to me, and off I went to Atlanta."

Following his career in the NFL he worked for Jim Beam distilleries, eventually becoming the CEO of Future Brands, a joint venture between Jim Beam and ABSOLUT. He was inducted into the Riordan Hall of Fame in 1977, and into the USF Hall of Fame in 1988.

Donohoe stated emphatically that his time at Riordan

shaped him into the man he is today and had this advice for Crusader athletes: "You always want to win, that is the competitiveness in us. However, what I learned at Riordan is that you are not always going to win, and that it is better to play as hard as you possibly can, and remember your values as a person. At the end of the game, if you won, more power to you, and if you didn't, ask yourself: did you do everything you possibly could?"

From one Crusader to another, working hard and doing your best will take you far in life. Donohoe closed by saying, "I was always proud to be part of this group of young men." R

About Marc Rovetti '87

Marc Rovetti is looking forward to reconnecting with alumni and getting to know current parents and students. He hopes to continue to engage the community and increase participation of all constituents so that we can be stronger together.

A native San Franciscan, Marc grew up in West Portal and attended St. Brendan's school. After graduating from Riordan in 1987 he went on to play football for the Aggies of UC Davis and received a BA in Psychology in 1992. He joined the family business, Rossi & Rovetti Flowers, then furthered his entrepreneurial spirit with Nexflora wire service in the Netherlands, and Gerald Stevens, a national floral conglomerate. In 2001, Marc purchased Podesta Baldocchi, a San Francisco landmark, which he ran until 2009, eventually selling, and then joined Native Floral Group overseeing Northern California Operations.

A LABOR OF LOVE

FOR GENERATIONS OF RIORDAN DRAMA By Tony Payne

September 2, 2013 was a warm day, with the sort of blue skies and thin white clouds one might picture if asked to imagine a perfect Labor Day.

As the sun was setting, crowds gathered outside Archbishop Riordan High School’s Lindland Theatre for Lucky 13: A Labor of Love Alumni Revival. A half-hour before the curtains rose, the atmosphere was already electric.

Current students and their parents worked the box office, greeting the arriving crowd of alumni, students, faculty, staff, and friends of the school. A group of retired Marianists, many of whom are alumni and former faculty themselves, pulled up in a limousine. Boys and girls piled into a photobooth that had been erected in the Phelan Avenue breezeway. Old friends shook hands and slapped each other on the back.

Though the show was just about to begin, the story started long ago.

“When the Riordan theatre opened in 1950, it put the school on the map,” notes Bro. Bill Bolts, SM ’53. He recalls selling tickets and producing posters for those early productions. “The plays and original musicals between 1951 and 1956 filled the theatre every night. The common refrain was ‘How could high school students put on such great performances?’”

Early shows had gigantic casts and crew of up to 250 students, drawing as many as 6,000 people. “When I look at old photos and yearbooks, it’s plain to see that Riordan Drama was the main attraction for a lot of people,” says Valerie O’Riordan, current Drama Director and the creative force behind Lucky 13. “It was the thing to do. It was the place to be.”

That Riordan Drama began so explosively is thanks in large part to the school’s first drama director, Mr. James Lindland. Lindland directed 12 plays and wrote a handful of others during his eight-year tenure.

What started back then lasts to this day.

As the theatre lights dimmed on Labor Day, the assembled crowd found their seats and their conversations lowered to an expectant buzz.

Lindland Theatre’s massive red curtains opened, and the audience was welcomed via video by Tom Sweeney ’76, doorman of the Sir Francis Drake Hotel, who has welcomed guests from around the world for 35 years.

The lights rose on a stage strewn with disused props and cast-aside plywood. At the command of Justin Wallis ’14, Riordan Drama Club President, a group of stage crew members, past and present, flocked onstage. The Jefferson Starship classic “We Built This City” piped over the speakers, and the team went to work. In a fine-tuned and synchronized display of hammering and drilling, they turned scraps, props and backdrops from past Riordan Drama productions around the stage into something wholly original. What had seemed spontaneous was actually well-designed and planned by John Quituqua ’08.

With a proper set in place, the show was truly ready to begin.

The emcees of the evening, Joe Spano ’63 and Cammy Blackstone, mother of Louis Novicki ’16, took the stage.

Remarking on his own brief experience with Riordan Drama, Spano, whose long career in film and television includes Hill Street Blue and NCIS, says he wished he had tried out for more roles than the one or two he did. When he first auditioned for Riordan’s second Drama Director, Mr. Ken Barbieri ’54, Barbieri said to him, “Where have you been the last four years?”

That question made quite an impact on Spano. It dawned on him that perhaps he had really found a home for himself in acting.

“The well-rounded education that working in drama gives you, there’s no replacement for that,” says O’Riordan. “Working in theatre gives you the life lessons of working with other people and stepping into their shoes.”

Denis Fama ’64, a performer during his time at the school, returned to the stage for Lucky 13 to dance alongside his brother Joe ’60 and other alumni. “My experience in Riordan Drama created a sense of family among cast and crew, and we all felt that we were on an adventure together," Fama said. "I remember feeling a real sense of loss when it was over."

For every generation of students to come through the doors of Lindland Theatre, the experience has been much the same. O'Riordan explains, "Where a student in some places and situations might feel like they have to rein in who they are, change who they are, in theatre we are asking them to go beyond their own skin."

Lindland Theatre is a work of art itself. The space is named for the school's first drama director, and can seat 1,147. Like the rest of the school's facilities, it was built to stand the test of time.

"The venue is what continually sustains the program," says O'Riordan. "We have an amazing, amazing facility here."

Proceeds from the raffle and silent auction at Lucky 13 will benefit updates to old technology around the theatre, such as sound equipment and lighting. Lindland Theatre may withstand the march of time, but the technology must change to keep pace.

When the sound of "There's No Business Like Show Business" filled the theatre, dancers filed onto stage and gave the audience a visual representation of the legacy of Riordan Drama. Alumni from 1960 to 2013 and current students began to can-can, shuffle-ball-change, and wave their best jazz hands.

As the evening proceeded, it also became clear how many people of varied talents had come across that stage over the years.

Chris Dwyer '91 and his wife Angela entertained with their piano and voice duet of jazz standards. Tom Osborne '05 performed a troops-rousing monologue from Richard III, while Dan O'Connor '91 along two other improvisational professionals from Los Angeles Impro Theatre extemporaneously created an eight-minute play in the style of Shakespeare, which left the audience in stitches.

The evening rolled on, bringing with it a spirited medley from Phantom of the Opera, courtesy of David '91 and Katharine Greenbaum, a must-be-seen-to-believe magic show from Greg Chin '00, and two songs from the repertory of Ricky Ricardo, performed by Bill Mendieta '86. Mendieta is currently touring the nation, playing Ricardo in I Love Lucy: Live on Stage.

Principal Vittorio Anastasio '84 joined the fun by sharing a few jokes at the mic before launching into "You've Lost That Loving Feeling." In a nod to Vaudeville acts, a hooked cane soon appeared from offstage and pulled Anastasio off.

Other faculty and staff performers included Joey Klobas '07 and Stephanie Lundin, who appeared as an old couple reminiscing and singing about the old days.

Before the Alumni dancers got onstage for the last time, one final alumnus displayed his tremendous talent. Ron Rosa '60, who has worked at Riordan as math teacher, coach, bus driver, and Prep Shop manager, came onstage with his dance partner Lynn Gardiner to perform what was billed as "The Last Dance." Rosa and Gardiner began their routine coy and shy, with Rosa playing the reluctant boy at a school dance. They moved slowly through the classic ballroom steps before breaking into a full-fledged disco routine, complete with a soundtrack from the Bee Gees. They had the crowd on their feet, hooting and hollering.

When the curtain finally lowered, graduates from seven decades had shared the stage. They were brought together by something that had played a significant role in their lives.

The theatre still stands as a monument to the workmanship that went into constructing Archbishop Riordan High School. The legacy of the drama program has proven just as strong and long-lasting.

Denis Fama remarked that, "Just as I had a sense of loss when I left Riordan Drama, I had the same feeling after a week of rehearsing for Lucky 13."

One of the most touching moments of the evening was the Guardian Angel Tribute, a slideshow set to music commemorating many deceased alumni, staff and friends of Riordan.

The legacy of Riordan Drama will continue to grow under the care of O'Riordan, who has led the program for 13 years now, through varied productions such as One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, Romeo & Juliet, and Jesus Christ Superstar. Supporting her, like they have supported every drama director over the past 60-plus years, are the other directors who design, choreograph, and assist in putting on the productions, and the steady stream of young Crusaders who are looking for a place to find themselves. R

RIORDAN TAKES STANFEL CUP

The Stanfel Cup has always been marked by great friendships and friendly rivalries, and this year's contest between Archbishop Riordan High School and Sacred Heart Cathedral (SHC) proved to be no exception.

The Stanfel Cup is named for Nicholas Stanfel '83, who played football at Riordan and later at the College of San Mateo and Cal Lutheran University. Stanfel returned to coach at Riordan after graduating from Cal Lutheran, and during this time he was diagnosed with brain cancer. The cancer went into remission, and he later coached at SHC with John Lee, Riordan's current Varsity Head Coach and also a close friend.

Unfortunately Stanfel lost his battle with cancer in 1992, and a group of friends, coaches and alumni from Riordan and SHC got together to talk about how to honor Nick, an individual who played hard and showed incredible resiliency when faced with difficult circumstances. This group included Frank Oross '69, former Riordan Head Varsity Football Coach and current faculty member Liam Watters, Coach Lee and Phil Freed, current SHC Director of Athletics. SHC had recently joined the West Catholic Athletic League and was playing Riordan regularly, so the Stanfel Cup was born to be played each year between the two schools.

"Nick had such a great sense of humor and told it like it is," said Oross. "The Stanfel Cup is about the spirit to never give up and to fight against all the odds."

Coach John Lee and Ann Hirsch

The Stanfel Cup also celebrates the many Riordan and SHC connections in the City. "This is a chance to honor a great man in the context of two great San Francisco schools competing against each other," said Principal Vittorio Anastasio '84, also a friend of Stanfel.

From l-r, Frank Oross '69, Jericho Tamasese '14, Zach Masoli '14, Christian Hall '14 and Mark Mino '74

This year's thrilling game was the first Stanfel Cup win under Lee's leadership, and Riordan's first Cup win in the past five years. Overall Riordan has won 12 times and SHC ten.

There is another part of this year's game that truly reflects the Marianist family spirit that permeates Riordan. Stanfel's mother, Ann Hirsch, attends the game each year with Nick's sisters Rose and Angela. This year Nick's former fiancé Danan sat beside them as well. At the time that Nick passed away, he and Danan were engaged to be married. Now living in Florida, Danan also brought her family, including son Sam who is currently battling brain cancer. Sam took part in the opening ceremony and coin toss with the team. In an unexpected and poignant moment, Oross grabbed a jersey to give Sam as a gift and randomly selected 63, Stanfel's former jersey number.

"I try and honor Nick every way I can, but this year's win was extra special at home, on our Riordan field, and with his family there," said Lee. "Nick is smiling down on us. He would have loved this." R

The Nick Stanfel Memorial Scholarship supports students attending Riordan. For more information, please contact Mr. Marc Rovetti '87, mrovetti@riordanhhs.org or (415)586-8200 ext. 357.

LEADING AT THE NEXT LEVEL

Network Globally, Lead Locally

Henry Bonilla '15 spent his summer developing skills he will use for the rest of his life. Bonilla was nominated by Archbishop Riordan High School faculty to attend the State Leadership Seminar (LS) in Sacramento, and along with fellow Crusader Jason Conci '15 and 100 students from all over California, spent four days with one focus—building future leaders. Through a host of group activities, attendees learned how to interact with others while getting an opinion across; how to be a role model for others; and how to encourage a group to think about long-term goals. Based on Bonilla's success at the LS, a conference sponsored by the Hugh O'Brien Leadership (HOBY) organization, he and three other students were selected to attend the World Leadership Congress held at Loyola University in Chicago later in the summer.

HOBY emphasizes leadership from four perspectives: Personal Leadership, Group Leadership, Societal Leadership, and Global Leadership. At the week-long Congress in Chicago, Bonilla and more than 400 students from around the world attended panels by business, non-profit, education and social media leaders, including CNN journalist Josh Levs, the Reverend Jesse Jackson, and many others. When asked about the most important thing he learned, he stated, "It is better to listen than hear; listening to other people may influence your perspective on a situation."

Back at Riordan, Bonilla said, is where his work will really begin, emphasizing service as a way to support the community.

He has already jumped in, becoming more involved with the CORE service team and helping to organize the school's fall blood drive. With a summer of personal development under his belt, no doubt there will be more opportunities for him to lead for the greater good.

Advocate Locally, Serve Passionately

For Joshua Cardenas '15, a desire to make a difference in the lives of youth turned up the volume on a call to public service. Cardenas is one of 17 members of the San Francisco Youth Commission representing more than 200,000 young people in San Francisco.

Early in his high school career, Cardenas was drawn to the work of the Youth Commission; he applied his sophomore year but was not accepted. Encouraged by Youth Commission staff to try again, he was appointed in August 2013 by Supervisor John Avalos. Cardenas was also selected by fellow commissioners to serve on the Executive Committee as the Legislative Affairs Officer. He is the point person for receiving, monitoring and reporting pending legislation from the Board of Supervisors to the Commission for comment and recommendation.

Cardenas with Mayor Ed Lee

To be the voice for the voiceless is a theme for Cardenas's leadership. He currently serves on the Youth Justice subcommittee to learn more about the needs of youth of incarcerated parents, and how to ensure full recreational access for youth detainees. Youth immigration and employment, and opportunities for low-income and communities of color, round out his priorities.

As Cardenas learns the nuts and bolts of public service and advocacy, including writing legislative memos, engaging constituents, and working with public officials, he hasn't lost sight of the value of this tremendous experience. "You have to put in your time and understand the issues from multiple perspectives," he said. "You have to practice making good, informed decisions."

When asked if he aspires to a higher office, Cardenas acknowledged that it is a possibility, but for now, "I like being empowered to make decisions on behalf of today and tomorrow's youth in our great city." R

New Administrative Team Looks Forward

Archbishop Riordan High School is committed to innovation in education, while acknowledging that faith, service and community play a key role in realizing the success of all students. The following members of the administrative team are helping to advance the student experience at Riordan.

Vittorio Anastasio '84, Principal

Vittorio Anastasio has developed a truly comprehensive knowledge of Archbishop Riordan High School through multiple roles as a faculty member, administrator, guidance counselor, coach and alumni leader over the past 25 years. These experiences have led him to a deep understanding of the school's mission; the needs of the student body; the expectations of faculty; the role of parents as educational partners, and the importance of Riordan in the Bay Area community. Anastasio holds a MA in Counseling Psychology and a Pupil Personnel Services Credential from USF, and a BA and Secondary Teaching Credential in Physical Science from San Francisco State University.

Frances Dillon, Dean of Community Life

Frances Dillon is the Dean of Community Life, a new position designed to ensure the success of all co-curricular student programs at Riordan, specifically in the areas of Student Activities and Campus Ministry. She also leads the St. Francis Scholar Program and serves as the Student Government Moderator. Dillon has many years of experience in several Catholic high schools where she taught English, directed student activities and web communications, and worked as an athletic director, librarian, and coach. She graduated from UC Berkeley with a BA in English, and earned her teaching credential in English from San Francisco State University.

Michael O'Brien, Dean of Curriculum

As the new Dean of Curriculum, Michael O'Brien works closely with faculty to create an environment where knowledgeable and passionate educators engage, inspire and lead by example. At Riordan he oversees curriculum development, the integration of technology into the learning process, professional development, and other teaching initiatives. O'Brien is also the Science Department Chair and an English and Science instructor; his courses often explore the intersection of the natural and literary worlds. He earned a BS in Botany and a BA in English from UC Davis, and a MA in English from Humboldt State University.

Juan Zumbado '98, Dean of Students

Juan Zumbado is in his second year as Dean of Students at Riordan. Drawing on his own experience as a Crusader, he works closely with students, parents and faculty to foster a positive culture where learning can thrive. It is his goal to guide students to become well rounded, thoughtful and faith-filled young men. Zumbado graduated from USF with a BA in Economics and earned a MA in Diplomacy from Norwich University in Vermont.

Student Achievement at the AP Level

Riordan's Advanced Placement program is growing, fueled by more students seeking additional coursework and looking to earn college credit. "In recent years, we have seen a rise in the number of students taking AP courses," said Dean of Curriculum Michael O'Brien. "Not all students take AP courses, but for those who have demonstrated the desire to take an increased load, we have the flexibility with our schedule to make it happen for them." Riordan's block schedule allows students to take AP courses in both the fall and spring semesters, with testing held each May. The AP program also benefits students who have developed a specific interest area, such as science, so they can take additional AP classes in that subject.

History-Making Winter and Spring 2013 Seasons

Basketball Team Advances to State Semi-Finals

Rich Buckner '90 once again led the Crusaders to another winning season, culminating in the Northern California Division IV State Semi-Finals. The team finished 21-12 overall. Season highlights included the first-ever all-level sweep of St. Ignatius. Geru Mabrey '13 made a buzzer beating shot to win the March 12 playoff game vs Marin Catholic. Chiefy Ugbaja '14 earned WCAL First Team honors, and Mabrey and Jiday Ugbaja '14 received WCAL Honorable Mentions for the 2012-13 season.

Geru Mabrey '13

New School Record in Baseball

The baseball team finished their season 12-15, and with All WCAL Honors for several players, including a Second Team All League nod for James Cullinane '13, and Honorable Mentions for Kobi Allen '16, Nick Healy '14, Jorge Navarro '13, and Anthony Ramirez '13. Cullinane now holds the school's single-season hit record with 30, a title that the previous record-holder held for 36 years. Allen was the only freshman on the varsity team, and was also invited to play in the Bay Area World Series for the Freshman/Sophomore division. Healy, Christopher Edwards '14 and Dante Biagini '14 also played in the World Series for the Junior/Senior division.

Kobi Allen '16

the Freshman/Sophomore division. Healy, Christopher Edwards '14 and Dante Biagini '14 also played in the World Series for the Junior/Senior division.

Wrestlers Continue Dominance

As a team the Crusaders earned 2nd place in the WCAL Finals, 7th place out of 90 schools in CCS Championships, and 17th Place out of 700 programs in the State. The results also placed Riordan in San Francisco wrestling history with the highest place ever by a city team. Of the seven State Placers ever from San Francisco, five are Riordan graduates.

Individual wrestlers also took home a host of accolades. Zac Contreras '13 (pictured above) became the school's first-ever three-time CCS Champion and pinned every wrestler in the tournament this year. Other school records he holds includes most wins (10) at the State Championships, and most appearances (three) at the State Championships for a Riordan wrestler (tied with Adam Cohen '81). Contreras finished 4th in the State Championship and is currently attending San Francisco State University on a wrestling scholarship.

Christian Garcia '14 finished 4th place in the CCS Championships and second in the Mid-Cal Championships. Dante Biagini '14 finished 5th place in the CCS Championships.

Inaugural Club Rugby Season Filled with Honors, Novice Players

Taking home league honors is rare for a first-year team. But the Riordan club rugby team did just that, ending the season with an 8-4 overall record and being voted the most outstanding first-year team in the Northern California Youth Rugby Association's Bay Area Conference for the Silver Junior Varsity division. In the first-ever meeting of two WCAL-member teams, Riordan beat Bellarmine 26-22.

"This group worked incredibly hard, improved daily, and dreamed big," said Coach Tony Wells, noting that the majority of players came to the team with no previous rugby experience. Wells played semi-professionally in his native New Zealand before coming to the U.S. and joining the San Francisco Golden Gate Rugby Club (SFGGR) based on Treasure Island. Assisting Wells was Wylie Ilalio, also a Riordan football coach.

While currently a club sport, Wells hopes the WCAL will officially adopt rugby in the next few years, with other schools possibly fielding teams. "I look at rugby as a skill for life, teaching discipline and strategy," said Wells. "Many of the SFGGR players have gone on to play at colleges with stellar rugby programs, including UC Berkeley. The sport is gaining popularity."

According to the Sporting Goods Manufacturers Association, rugby is the fastest growing sport in the U.S. among high school students. In 2010 USA Rugby created a new college department to promote play at that level, and rugby will make its Olympic debut at the 2016 Games in Rio de Janeiro after a 91-year absence.

As the rugby team enters the 2014 season, no doubt they will be looking at where the sport can take them, and having fun along the way. R

Q&A with

Director of Athletics

Jesse West

New Director of Athletics Jesse West brings years of experience to the job as a former teacher, coach and manager both at the high school and college levels. In his most recent position he was the Lead Assistant Coach for the Menlo College Men's Basketball team. Prior to that he served as an Assistant Basketball Coach at the California Maritime Academy in Vallejo. In this Q&A, he shares his vision for Crusader Athletics.

What is the role of an Athletic Department?

I believe the Athletic Department serves both the student and the school. For the student, athletics is a way to showcase talent, build friendships, test physical abilities, and learn life lessons while competing. An athlete learns how to accomplish a goal both individually and in a group, how to get back up after being knocked down, and how to overcome an obstacle that seemed so big. An important part of our boys' development is to learn how to do these things through athletics.

Athletics is also another way we express who we are as a school. Our boys are competitive and organized, and I know our opponents walk away from our games thinking that Riordan is an amazing place. We have an exceptional group of friendly and professional parent volunteers helping run our games, and fantastic fans.

What is your vision for Riordan Athletics?

One of the first projects that I worked on was to reorganize some of the gym closets and storage areas. There I found year after year of WCAL and CCS championship trophies for almost every sport. It was obvious to me that Riordan was a school with a winning tradition.

I see our Athletic Department setting a new standard for the WCAL and all schools across the country. We are creating new ways for fans to experience our games and interact with our Athletic Department. Our new athletics website is set to launch soon, and media guides (programs) are now available on your smart phone or iPad when you enter each home contest. On top of that, I envision an Athletic Department that produces student-athletes that graduate from Riordan making their college choice between the athletic scholarship and academic scholarship they have been offered.

What are you most looking forward to this year?

I think people expect me to say our basketball and wrestling teams making a run at the state championship, or the big rivalry games in football and baseball. For me, there is nothing more that I look forward to than watching our coaches coach and our athletes practice. I spend a lot of my time in my office, in meetings and taking care of departmental business, but I relish the time I get to see our teams in action. I love when our basketball players are in open gym and our wrestlers are in the weight room. I love watching the cross country team run on the track while the football players are on the field.

Archbishop Riordan Prep Shop

I've been involved with athletics for a long time and at various levels. I know the winning will come, the championships will be there, the awards will pour in all under one condition—we get better every single day.

Describe the role of a coach.

To me, the role of the coach is to put your players in the position to be successful every single day. What I think we often forget is that a season is a process. Both players and coaches are challenged and put in learning situations throughout the year so that they improve and have the chance to advance to the championship. Players learn their weaknesses and how to get better. Coaches are figuring out rotations and who plays well in different game situations.

It would be great if we could schedule the easiest opponents and beat them every game. We'd all walk away feeling like we were great and pat each other on the back. But what would we have learned from that? How much better would we be at the end of the year? I'd contend that we'd actually be worse. Our coaches' role is to challenge our players, teach them to overcome adversity, and celebrate the real success of improved skills and teamwork.

NEXT STEPS

THE CLASS OF 2013 LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

On May 25, 2013, Archbishop Riordan High School presented 117 diplomas to members of the Class of 2013. This group of talented students, athletes, musicians, actors, artists and leaders earned thousands of dollars in scholarships to attend some of the finest universities in the United States. Brandon Chen represented his class as valedictorian, and the salutatorian speaker was Arcelio Reybol, ARHS Class President.

Excerpts from the Valedictory Address by Brandon Chen, currently attending Northwestern University

*We started out like any freshman class at Riordan:
congesting the lunch lines to the irritation of the upperclassmen and singing along to "Coach O's Corner."*

The unique sense of brotherhood here is what separates Riordan from other high schools. It is through this supportive, accepting network that we can confidently express who we are. And, because of our brotherhood, because of the people sitting behind me, I am able to stand here in front of you today.

Just like building friendships, learning to enjoy the present, rather than the mistakes of the past or the apprehensions of the future, takes a lifetime, but it makes every moment of life worthwhile. Although we have stumbled and thought about giving up many times over, each one of us has pushed a brother onward.

And so, to my fellow graduates: we have come full circle to a new first day, but this time as Crusaders for the rest of our lives. This school has gifted us with an excellent education, and a lot of love from the teachers. Today begins a new struggle: to share the gifts of the Riordan brotherhood. I love all of you just as who you are, and congratulations to the Class of 2013!

FY 2012-2013 Annual Giving Report

Archbishop Riordan High School

July 1, 2012 - June 30, 2013

Thank you to our 1,054 Donors

A Message From the Director of Development

PATRICK W. DALY

Dear Riordan Community,

Seeing a student population that truly represents the world's diversity is a gift at Archbishop Riordan High School that we cannot take for granted. Shepherding this gift wisely is our mission, and we strive to prepare our young men to become outstanding leaders in their own right. Under the leadership of Mr. Joseph Conti, my responsibility as the Director of Development is to raise the necessary funds to provide financial assistance to qualified families so we can continue to provide an affordable, quality education in the Marianist tradition to all young men who seek it.

Each day, the devoted Archbishop Riordan faculty, staff, and administration are meeting the challenges of a 21st century education on Phelan Avenue. Here's an example of this type of leadership. Two years ago when discerning how to better prepare our young men for their future, including the ever competitive employment and college markets, Riordan adopted a technology-driven curriculum with the 1:1 iPad program. Under the leadership of our Academic Technology Department, the school evaluated the educational and practical needs of students and faculty, and how our campus infrastructure would physically support more than 900 wireless devices. With input from internal audiences and outside consultants, they created a plan to transition the school to the use of iPads in the classroom and install a state-of-the-art wireless system to support this new program. Technology is an ongoing area of focus for faculty professional development, and for students we are building an ethics in technology curriculum so they leave Riordan with a better understanding of how to positively use technology.

Where do these accomplishments leave us today? In 2011 the school completed a 20-year masterplan to address the aging facilities of Riordan. Part of those plans called for the renovation of our campus, including the modernization of our classrooms, music center and athletic facilities. Following through on this $61 million dollar masterplan is necessary to carry Riordan into the next 100 years of all male Marianist education. Your support of the $1.8 million dollars of financial aid awarded is just one area of need. We are also in the silent phase of the $2.2 million dollar Field Project. This project kicks off the renovations that will enhance the educational experience of our current and future students, while bringing Riordan onto a level playing field with our competition.

Many other Catholic schools in the Bay Area have invested tens of millions of dollars, funds from alumni, foundations and other sources, to transform and modernize their campuses. Now it is Riordan's turn. We look forward to your support of the annual pledge, and we ask that you keep the staff and young men of Riordan in your thoughts and prayers.

GO CRUSADERS!

Support Archbishop Riordan High School

Annual Fund

The Annual Fund supports all areas of the school, from financial aid and retreat programs, to day-to-day operations. Typically this is a direct gift of cash or a pledge over the course of the year.

Stocks and Real Estate

Archbishop Riordan accepts donations of securities which may be tax deductible based on market value. An individual pays no capital gains tax on the donation of securities that have been held for more than one year. Please consult your tax specialist for advice.

Real property, either in entirety or in part, can be deeded to Archbishop Riordan. It is even possible to arrange a sizable tax deduction by deeding a home or other building to the school now, while continuing to occupy the property for life. All real estate transactions are subject to inspection and final approval by the Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Planned Gifts

With proper planning, individuals can assume maximum returns on assets and engage tax benefits while supporting Archbishop Riordan. Our staff and network of financial professionals are available to help you assess your giving options and chose a path that will most benefit you and your family. For example, charitable remainder trusts can be built with assets you contribute, such as securities, appreciated property or cash.

The Heritage Society honors individuals who have made Archbishop Riordan a beneficiary of their estate plans, including bequests, charitable trusts, gifts of life insurance or retirement funds. These gifts of forethought guarantee the long-term vitality of Archbishop Riordan and also provide donors with valuable tax and income benefits during their lifetime.

Matching Gifts

Many employers offer corporate matching gift programs that will double or sometimes even triple an employee's gift to Archbishop Riordan. Please check with your Human Resources Department for matching gift forms and programs.

Parent Promise Program

The true cost to educate a child is more than tuition alone. Each year we ask current parents to support the school by participating in the Parent Promise, a four-year commitment made by a family during a student's freshman year. Gifts made to the Parent Promise are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law.

Gifts Honoring Individuals

Special occasions such as birthdays, anniversaries, and other milestones, are a great opportunity to honor a relative, friend, or business associate. You can also make a gift to the school in honor of a person who has passed away. The Development Office can send a written notification to the person being honored or their family.

Named Scholarships

The gift of a scholarship is truly a symbol of stewardship by providing an education for the next generation of Crusaders. Endowed scholarships will grow in perpetuity. Many alumni have sponsored scholarships for their individual classes, and families, foundations and other organizations have created named scholarships as well. Please contact the Development Office for more information about setting up a scholarship. Please see page N for a list of Named Scholarships.

Archbishop Riordan High School Endowment

An endowment is a gift that is held in perpetuity and invested to provide a stable funding source for the school. Endowment donors have the opportunity to make a lasting influence on the school, and gifts can be directed to scholarships and other school programs.

If you have questions about any of these giving options, please contact:

Mr. Patrick Daly
Director of Development

Archbishop Riordan High School Heritage Society

We thank the following friends who have made provisions in their estate plans — bequests, charitable trusts, gifts of life insurance or retirement funds — to support Archbishop Riordan High School. These gifts guarantee the long-term vitality of Archbishop Riordan while also providing donors with valuable tax and income benefits during their lifetime. The generosity of the following is appreciated.

2013 Chaminade Award Recipient John F. McCloskey '55

On Friday, January 18, the Archbishop High School community honored Captain John F. "Jack" McCloskey '55 (SFFD retired) with the 2013 Chaminade Award for his decades of service to Riordan as a dedicated alumnus, parent, founding board member, benefactor and friend. Jack's entire family was in attendance, including sons and Riordan alumni John '80 and Joe '81, as well as San Francisco Fire Chief Joanne Hayes-White, who gave a spirited tribute to her Fire Department trainer. Bishop William J. Justice celebrated the Mass, with co-celebrants Fr. Mike Quinn '70 and Fr. Thomas Seagrave '60. As a special tribute to Jack, the ARHS marching band learned the Marines' Hymn in his honor.

Class Reunions

Though they might not see each other everyday, whenever a group of Riordan classmates gets together, it is always a good time. If you are interested in getting your class together for a reunion, please contact Director of Alumni Relations Mr. Marc Rovetti '87, mrovetti@riordanhhs.org or (415)586-8200 ext. 357.

Class of 1976 Launches Endowed Scholarship Campaign

Long-time friends Kevin Herman '76 and Steve Roche '76 play a lot of golf, and the conversation always drifts back to their time on Phelan Avenue. "With my son Nicolas now a junior at Riordan, I realize it is more important than ever to give back to the alma mater," said Roche. Both concluded that one of the most significant ways to support the school is through scholarships for future Crusaders.

The Class of 1976 started a class scholarship a few years ago under the leadership of Bill Nowlin '76 and Paul De Martini '76. Roche and Herman are now calling on their classmates to take this to the next level and create an endowed scholarship that will live in perpetuity for the life of the school. This will be the school's 7th endowed class scholarship that supports many deserving students seeking a college prep, Marianist education.

"If you want to make a gift that will have an impact year after year, endow a scholarship," said Director of Development Patrick Daly. "The cost of Catholic education increases three to five percent each year, and your gift to financial aid meets our biggest need."

In the Crusader spirit, Roche and Herman are encouraging their '76 classmates to support the endowment. "Contributions of any size are welcome, and they are all greatly appreciated to help us reach our goal," said Herman.

In the spirit of competition, the Class of 1976 challenges other classes to do the same.

If you are interested in supporting the Class of 1976 Endowment, or if you would like more information about how to start an endowment for your class, please contact Mr. Marc Rovetti '87, (415)586-8200 ext. 357 or mrovetti@riordanhhs.org.

A scholarship can be endowed for $25,000. Monthly, quarterly or other payment plans can be set up to suit your needs.

Class of 1963 Golden Diploma

Cheers to the Class of 1963, who celebrated 50 years since graduating from Archbishop Riordan High School on April 26-27. More than 40 members of the Class and their families celebrated with a Mass and reception at Riordan, followed by a dinner at the Fairmont Hotel.

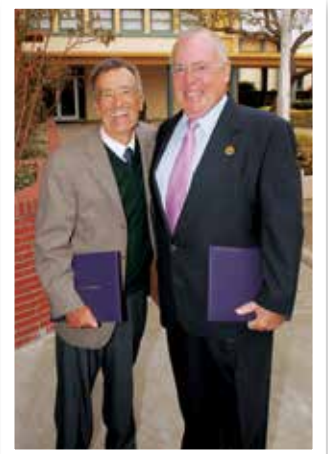

The Class of 1963 represents a diverse group of attorneys, judges, civil service workers, police officers, fireman, clergy, physicians, businessman, electricians, teachers, actors, elected officials, social workers, professional athletes, college professors and artists. In the spirit of brotherhood, Dr. Tim Norman, former class president, gave this advice to current students: "Regardless of our individual and collective accomplishments, when the Class of '63 looks back we realize and appreciate the influence Riordan had in our lives and how fortunate we were to have gone to this school."

Thank you to the 1963 Reunion Committee:

Class of 1973 Celebrates 40 years

The dedication of their yearbook read "There is a future for a man of PEACE." Fast forward 40 years and that spirit was alive and well at a celebration for the Class of 1973. Many friends enjoyed a Friday night Giants game, followed by a "Hawaiian shirt casual" dinner at the Elks Club in San Francisco the next night. Special thanks to Walter Heath for helping to organize the weekend.

2013 Crusader Golf Classic and Ed Fennelly Perpetual Cup

On October 25, 95 golfers tee'd off to support Riordan athletics at Presidio Golf Course in San Francisco. This year's tournament was renamed to honor Riordan teacher, coach, mentor and icon Ed Fennelly. The event also served to launch the Riordan Field project to turf the current field for our young men.

Congratulations to the first-place team—Vico Piccinini '74, Mike Politz, Joe Ryan, and Paul Uniake. Their names will be added to the Cup (pictured at right).

A special thanks to the tournament volunteers who worked tirelessly to ensure its success.

Riordan Alums Inducted into Daly City and San Francisco Hall of Fames

Frank Oross '69 was inducted into the Daly City Hall of Fame in May 2013. An accomplished athlete at Riordan, he attained all-league status in football, basketball and track; his senior year he was selected the captain for each team. Oross would go on to play football at City College and San Francisco State. During his junior year, he led the nation (Division 2) in interceptions, and his senior year he earned all-conference honors. A teacher and multi-sport coach at Riordan for the past 42 years, "Coach O" is a Riordan icon, mentor and friend to countless students and alumni. Oross is also a second degree black belt in judo.

Gerald "Jerry" White '57 was inducted posthumously into the San Francisco Prep Hall of Fame in May. While at Riordan he played football and ran track. White was a retired Lieutenant of 30 years with the San Francisco Fire Department.

An accomplished coach and runner, Jim Tracy '68 was also inducted into the San Francisco Prep Hall of Fame. Jim is the most decorated cross country coach in California history. As a coach at University High School in San Francisco since 1994, his girls' team has won nine state championships.

In related news, Jim was the subject of a documentary film, Running for Jim, about his coaching career at University and battle with Lou Gehrig's Disease. The film has premiered at film festivals around the world, garnering awards including Best Documentary at the 2013 Soho International Film Festival and Best Feature Film at the Los Angeles Independent Film Festival, among many others. Information about the film can be found at www.runningforjim.com.

The Riordan campus is also featured in this film.

CROSSING THE FINISH LINE

STEVE MAYER '72 ON RUNNING AN IRONMAN AND A BUSINESS

The following is an adaptation of an article Mayer wrote for Accounting Today. To read the full article, go to sdmayer.com.

In November 2012, I left Burr Pilger Mayer, a firm that I co-founded and ran for 25 years, and started a new accounting and wealth management firm called SD Mayer & Associates. On that same day, I decided to do an Ironman. Ten years ago when I turned 50, I did a half Ironman as a midlife adventure; as I looked at 59 slipping away and the challenges of starting a new company, finishing an Ironman seemed like a worthy goal.

On July 27, 2013, I crossed the finish line at 9:59:56 pm after swimming 2.4 miles, cycling 112 miles and running 26.2 miles. My family was there to cheer me on, and I am sure their thoughts ranged from being very proud to “I hope he doesn’t do this again.” I could barely stand and the bottoms of my feet were covered with blisters. However, when the race official handed me a medal and said, “You are an Ironman,” the pain went away and was replaced with a sense of accomplishment that I will never forget.

Over the next few days as my body returned to normal, I started to think about the similarities of running a successful accounting firm and completing an Ironman. Just as there is a great feeling of crossing the finish line, in business there is a similar feeling knowing that you made a significant contribution to help clients achieve their goals. Here are my thoughts on how these two worlds collide:

1. You need a plan. Don’t fool yourself. Competing in an Ironman takes a big commitment. Figuring out the logistics of training and the balance between your normal life—family, work, recreation and friends—are all obstacles to overcome. Running a business also takes comprehensive planning. If you don’t know where you are going, how will you know when you get there?

2. The Right Equipment. An Ironman requires the right equipment: a bike, wetsuit, helmet, goggles, biking shoes, running shoes and a variety of clothing. A successful accounting firm needs the right tools such as a technology infrastructure that links the firm, employees and clients in an efficient manner. It also needs materials to tell their story.

3. Training. To finish an Ironman takes months of continuous training. Most weeks it is a minimum commitment of 15 to 20 hours. The quality of any business is very much proportional to the quality of its staff, and the firms that achieve greatness are those that combine professional development into a well-coordinated long-term plan for employees.

4. Research and Knowledge. Ironman races have been around for over 25 years. As a result there are plenty of veterans that are happy to share their experience and offer advice. There is also an endless amount of information on training, nutrition, equipment, and medical issues. Knowledge about the race and the ability to research training questions and techniques is critical to preparing oneself for the race. In the same manner, a well-run business must teach its people to research critical issues and add specific, unique client experiences to their knowledge database.

5. Support. No one ever finishes an Ironman without the support of their family, friends and colleagues. An accounting firm needs the same type of support. Over the course of a year and certainly over many years, it is a roller coaster of highs and lows. Between attracting clients, serving clients, hiring the right people, changing regulations, the long hours and the constant deadlines, it is a tough but rewarding career.

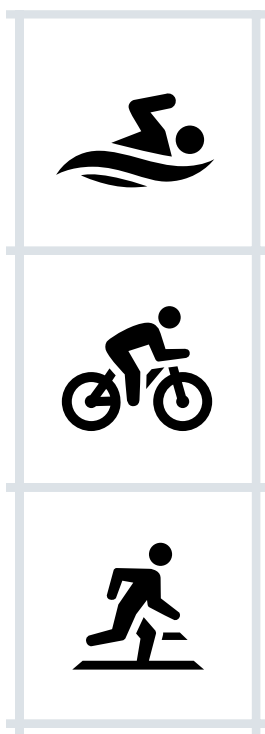

6. One Bite at a Time. When the gun went off and I started the swim, my mind broke the swim into about 10 sections: to the bridge, to the white buoy, to the next bridge and so on. When I started the bike ride, I did the same thing. When I reached the last running transition point at about 22 miles, I thought "In an hour, I will be an Ironman!" It is amazing how, if you break down any assignment into small pieces, each minor step brings a sense of accomplishment.

7. Finishing. Running through the tape at the finish line and hearing a race official say, "Congratulations, you are an Ironman" is quite a feeling. In the same manner, getting a new client when you have worked hard to gain their business, or hiring a key employee is a victory. Finishing is a great feeling and the more often you share it within your firm, the more successful you will become. Winning is contagious.

8. Engage Competitors. For the vast majority of people who complete an Ironman, your fellow athletes are colleagues who constantly offer encouragement and support. My number in the race was 639. I must have heard "great job 639" or something like that 500 times during the race. I have always encouraged my employees to become friends rather than competitors with other CPAs in their community. Everyone needs help. Everyone is not an expert in all matters. Building a strong base with other firms shows respect for others and that we are all in this together.

9. Continual Improvement. During my training I took 30 minutes off of my swim time, improved my average bike speed by over three miles an hour, and strengthened the muscles in my knees from not being able to run 100 yards without incredible pain to being able to go for 26 miles with no pain. None of this happened overnight. It took many months of training and conditioning. Unless you are committed to a philosophy of continuous improvement, complacency will settle in at any firm. Employees and clients will notice and slowly, but surely, your competition will pass you by.

When I finished the Ironman I was totally exhausted. I told myself, "Steve, you can cross that off the bucket list." Well in a few days, the pain was gone and my mind started to wander, "maybe I will do a half Ironman or just a marathon." All of the great professionals I know go through this cycle often, but they almost always come back for the next challenge. R

Jacob Valdiviezo '11

On March 30, the Riordan community lost Jacob Valdiviezo, a loved and respected Crusader alumnus, classmate, teammate, friend and brother.

After graduating from Riordan with honors, Jacob attended Lewis & Clark College in Oregon where he excelled as a wide receiver on the football team. In a letter, Barry Glassner, President of Lewis & Clark College, noted Jacob's "ever-present smile and infectious enthusiasm endeared him to all who knew him." The letter also described how Jacob befriended Patrick, a young man with special needs, who serves as unofficial trainer for L&C's football and basketball teams. Jacob made CDs for Patrick and served as Patrick's "go-to" whenever Patrick needed help or support. He lived his life embracing others.

Jacob is the son of Carlos and Margarita Valdiviezo, and brother of Carlos '07.

In his honor, Archbishop Riordan created the Jacob Valdiviezo Memorial Scholarship. In honor of their fallen brother, 100% of the Class of 2013 made a contribution to the Valdiviezo Scholarship during their final weeks as Riordan students last May. For more information on how you can support this scholarship, please contact Mr. Patrick Daly, pdaly@riordanhhs.org or (415)586-8200 ext. 264.

Friends We Have Lost

Tim Holl '77

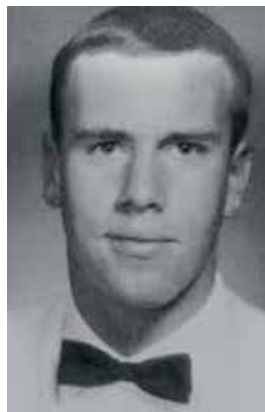

A member of one of Riordan's most enduring clans, Tim Holl passed away on May 18. All seven Holl brothers attended Riordan and jointly hold the record for the most graduates from any family. Tim was preceded in death by his brother Steve '67 in 2012.

After graduating from the California Maritime Academy in 1983, Tim began a long maritime career including years of tugboat experience and work on oil tankers. In 2005 he fulfilled a lifelong dream and became a licensed Bar Pilot, a job he enjoyed immensely. Tim had many cherished friends among his Bar Pilot colleagues.

The sea was central to Tim's life through his profession and as an avid kayaker, surfer and fly fisherman. He felt equally at home in the mountains where he enjoyed backpacking and rock climbing.

Tim will be remembered always by his wife of 23 years Laura, sons Ian and Eric, mother Claire, his brothers and sisters-in-laws, and many nieces and nephews.

Ed Mahoney '65

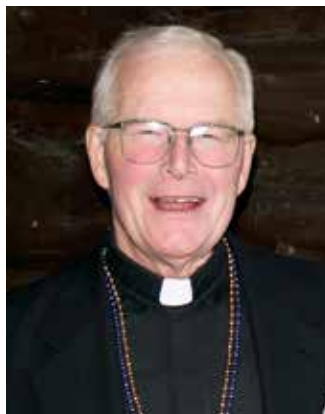

Ed Mahoney, a man devoted to helping generations of Crusaders to stay connected to Riordan and to each other, passed away on July 25.

After a long career with the Safeway organization, Ed returned to Riordan to assist the school with alumni and development projects. In this role he laid the groundwork for many events, most notably the Alumni/Senior Luncheon, now the Alumni/Senior Breakfast, held each May to welcome new Riordan graduates into the ranks of Crusader alumni. In 1998 Ed received the Blessed William Joseph Chaminade Award, the school's highest honor, in recognition of decades of service to the school. Most recently, Ed served as the Director of Development at Our Lady of Perpetual Help School in Daly City.

Ed will be deeply missed by his family, including wife Linda, children Josh, Dan and Thomas, his Crusader brothers, and the many friends he made while working on behalf of his beloved alma mater.

Monsignor John "Jack" O'Connor '52

An enthusiastic and loyal Crusader, Monsignor John "Jack" O'Connor died peacefully at his home in Healdsburg on March 15 at the age of 78.

Always an active alumnus who faithfully gave back to his alma mater, Jack was recognized for his service to Riordan on several occasions. In 1982 he received the Drama Award for distinguished alumni who have contributed to the advancement of Riordan's theatre program, and also received the nod of Alumnus of the Year. In 1995 he was recognized with the Chaminade Award, and would go on to serve as Honorary Chair of Riordan's first ever and very successful capital campaign. Jack enjoyed staying in touch with his '52 classmates and other Riordan friends, and in recent years he was a regular at the Downtown Luncheon.

Jack was preceded in death by his brother Philip, and is survived by his sister Peggy Vollert, and many nieces and nephews and their children. He will be deeply missed by his family, friends and the Riordan community.

Julio Saria, ARHS Staff Member

Julio Saria passed away peacefully on February 22 following a stroke he sustained the week prior. He was 74 years old.

Julio joined the Riordan Family in September of 2008. Day after day he was committed to making sure the Riordan campus was safe and beautifully maintained. This was particularly evident in the care he took to line the football field prior to games, and by supporting the events staff during the many events and festivities that take place at Riordan. His friends and colleagues will always remember how Julio approached every job, be it small or large, with a positive attitude.

For we know, if our earthly house of this habitation be dissolved, that we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in heaven.
